NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
of Ohio.
For Vice President,
GARRET A. HOBART,
of New Jersey.

FIVE POINTS ON MONEY.

First—That there is not a free coinage country in the world today that is not on a silver basis.
Second—That there is not a gold-standard country in the world today that does not use silver as money along with gold.
Third—That there is not a silver-standard country in the world today that uses any gold as money along with silver.
Fourth—That there is not a standard country in the world today that has more than one-third as much money in circulation per capita as the United States have, and Fifth—That there is not a silver-standard country in the world today where the laboring man receives fair pay for his day's work—John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury.

The Chicago Ticket.

Who is Bryan? What does he represent?
Why was he nominated?
He is one of the wildest of the wild men who assembled at Chicago.
He represents the wild men who have captured the Democratic organization.
He was nominated because he captured the wild men with a wild speech.
Bryan is as extreme as any man who sat in that convention of extremists. If the real Democratic party had been holding a convention he would no more have been thought of for the presidency than the man who tends door at the white house.

Protests of the Democracy.

Democratic newspapers not affiliated with the free silver lunacy are protesting against the Chicago crowd does not represent the Democracy. That old time champion of Democratic faith, the Baltimore Sun, makes its protest clear and vigorous. It says that the platform "is suggestive of the formation of an entirely new Democratic party, essentially different from that with which the names of Jefferson, Jackson, Tilden and Cleveland have been associated," and it points out that one of the most striking features of the platform of 1892, and its open repudiation and condemnation of the administration elected upon that platform.

The platform is denounced as "socialistic, populist, anarchistic—anything but Democratic." Everything that the Democracy has heretofore stood for, battled for and represented is discredited and repudiated. An entirely new political profession of faith is drafted, which neither points to nor reaffirms anything in the past but offers a new programme for the future. The only thing that is not new is the revival of the greenback heresy of a score of years ago."

Of the free silver plank the Sun says that by this "one declaration the convention cuts loose from all the teachings and precedents and traditions of the past. It ceases to be a convention of the Democratic party or to have a right to that once honored and historic name.
There are but three articles in the Democratic creed—free coinage, greenbacks and an income tax."

This is the situation as this devoted and vigilant champion of real Democracy sees it. This is the situation as it presents itself to the real Democrats of the country. A lot of mad men in an ecstasy of rage have made a mad declaration of principles, and the sane men of the Democratic party are expected to endorse that declaration because it is put out in the name of the Democratic party.

Senator Hill, of New York, and the sound money men who have stood with him in the convention, and all sane newspapers of the Democratic party, have said almost in terms that they cannot be expected to swallow this dose and will not swallow it. Why should any Democratic organization that puts it at him, and every thinking Democrat in the country knows well that if the schemes proclaimed at Chicago were endorsed at the polls, the result would be the ruin of the people and the dishonor of the country.

Can any true Democrat—can any man who loves his country—help to carry out such a programme? Hundreds of thousands of Democrats will not help. They will flock to the standard of sound money and patriotism. That standard will be borne in triumph through the campaign, and the Democrats who helped to set it will join in celebrating the glorious victory of sense and patriotism over insanity and anarchy.

It isn't the party of Jefferson and Jackson. It is the party of Tillman and Alger and Bryan! How have the mighty fallen!

Tillman's Blatant Talk.

Tillman in his speech in behalf of the crazy-quilt platform adopted at Chicago set the silver men wild with delight when he declared that "South Carolina in 1850 led the fight in the Democratic party which disrupted it." This is true as a matter of history, and it seems at this time to have a prophetic value.

South Carolina has not exactly led the movement that is to disrupt the Democratic party, but it has played the leading part. The leaders of the movement are the owners of the silver mines in the west. Those capitalists needed somebody to do their political work. They thought the south a fruitful field for missionary endeavor, and Tillman's antics in his own state brought him out in bold relief as a good kind of man to hitch up with.

Such a movement, in the nature of things, needed loud-mouthed demagogues to push it forward, and the pitiful statesman of South Carolina is just that kind of demagogue. Professing to be a Democrat he has denounced almost everything that is really Democratic, and at Chicago he has been one of the real leaders of the movement which is driving out of the Democratic party for the present every man who does not endorse the new Tillman-Alger idea of Democracy.

It might be thought that Tillman was too bold when he spoke of disrupting the Democratic party. The fact is that he and his crowd expect to lose a large number of Democrats and hope to more than make up for the loss by drawing into their ranks men more easy to mislead. They know that in consequence of Democratic tariff policy industrial conditions are not good, and that men who a few years ago were employed at good wages are either idle now or working for reduced wages, and they think that these men can be made to believe that a cheap dollar will solve their hurts.

The disruption of the Democratic party is nothing to Tillman and his crowd.
What they want is control, and they do not care how they get it. There is a dream of power, and they are wild enough to force already its realization.
If any proof were needed to show that they care nothing for the true Democrats of the country, that proof would be found in their shameful treatment of the sound money men in the Chicago convention.

That treatment can be understood only on the supposition that it was desired to drive out of the party all its conservative influences so as to make the new programme more attractive to the riffraff of the country.

Shades of Thomas Jefferson! They have dug out Bryan!

The Last Chance.

Whether the sound money men of the Democratic party could have prevented all this is a question. Certainly they did not try as intelligent and earnest men should have tried.

It must be said to the credit of President Cleveland and his cabinet that they seemed to have done what they could, but they did not receive from the sound money men of their party generally the support they should have had. In short the wild men were permitted to run away with the organization in the states, and so it was easy enough for them to capture the national organization.

As it was in West Virginia, so it was elsewhere. Another opportunity comes now for the sound money men. If they mean what they say, that they intend to stand for good business principles and the honor of the country, their last and only chance is to vote against the work done at Chicago and to use their influence energetically on the same business line. To do anything less is to help on the work cut out at Chicago.

The people of the United States will hit the Chicago monstrosity with a sound money club that will leave nothing of it.

West Virginia Aroused.

From every part of the state the Intelligencer is receiving letters on the political situation. The Republican party in West Virginia is shown by these letters from well informed men to be in first class fighting trim and eager for the fray. Unless all signs fail, the work at Chicago insures beyond question a sweeping Republican victory in West Virginia. The people of West Virginia do not wish to drive away capital, and when they earn a dollar they want a hundred cents.

It must have been an inspiring sight to see the bold, free silver Republicans hovering over a so-called Democratic convention, trying to dictate its policy and eager to make its ticket.

There was an encouragement for them to be there on this mission is another suggestion of the radical change that has taken place in the Democratic organization. Nothing of the old is left.
It is all new, and none of it is good.

The McDowell Recorder under its new management is fortunate enough to secure as its editor Mr. E. C. Klinsman, a capable and industrious man who will make himself popular and a power in his new field of labor. The Intelligencer wishes the Recorder and its editor the fullest measure of success.

President Cleveland should feel a deep sense of gratification that the Chicago crowd refused to endorse him. The favor of that outfit would damage the reputation of any man.

The mad men will go away from Chicago flushed with victory. This is July.
A little later they will go down in defeat. There is a big difference between July and November.

Pitcher's Castoria.

free-silver Democrats than any other in the union. It was one of the Michigan Democrats who, when the vote was challenged on the election of a temporary chairman of this convention, voted for the free silver candidate. I have always been a free silver man and I was a member of the committee on resolutions in the state convention two years ago that nominated that honest old man, Fisher, on a free silver platform. But I want to say to you, my friends and fellow delegates, we have not votes enough in this convention by a two-thirds majority without committing highway robbery.

A Roman admiral was about to go into battle when it was found there was something wrong with the oracles. He was told the sacred chickens would not drink. "We'll make them drink, then," he cried. "Throw them into the sea."
Not necessarily for a diagram, is there?
What did that mob of parasites care for warnings? Party traditions were nothing to them. When they interfered they were thrown overboard.

There was a man in that convention who held more power than any Democratic politician in the party. He can never be elected to the presidency of the United States because of his alien birth, yet he was pressing the button and the delegates were doing the rest.
His name is Alger. His enemies say he is a scoundrel. Did you ever notice the resemblance of his pictures to Guit-eau? Of him Delegate McDermott, of New Jersey, wrote to the New York World.

"Alger was in evidence to-day, and being in evidence, brought back the pictures of the man who cried 'Glory! glory!' when he was hanged for killing President Garfield. But Alger had more buttons. He will not be hanged; he will die rich."

Temporary Chairman Daniel had a rhetorical jag on when he made his speech on taking the chair after the convention had bludgeoned Hill. He is an orientalist in imagery, and how those warm, florid sentences did flow!
Here is a sample specimen:

"I am happy, gentlemen, to know that as the majority in this convention is not personal, neither in any sense is it violent. It is tolerant, it is admirable and the pines in Maine and South Carolina, it begins with the sunrise in Maryland and spreads into a sunburst in Louisiana and Texas.

"It pours down its rivulets from the mountains of West Virginia and makes a great lake in New Mexico, Arizona, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Montana and Colorado."

How in the name of geography or topography can anything—even of this "mountain dew" brand—pour down in rivulets short of a Noahic deluge, and make a great lake in that far-off clime?

The convention has been compared to the cave of Adullam of scriptural fame.
The authority for that reference is to be found in I Samuel, xxiii:2: "David therefore departed thence, and escaped to the cave of Adullam. And everyone that was in distress, and everyone that was debt, and everyone that was discontent, gathered themselves unto him; and he became a captain over them; and there were with him about four hundred men."

Pretty neat, isn't it? The only difference is David didn't have a two-thirds majority. Perhaps the committee on credentials hadn't reported when the paper went to press. We are not told this, but it might have been the case.

The bicyclists ought to have a particular reverence for ex-Governor Hogg, of Texas, who granted a few lines in the convention. He is said, in one of his fits of temporary insanity, to have characterized the innocent and healthful wheel as "a dromedary for dudes."

The castles that this free silver, Populistic hybrid Democratic convention have erected in their platform stand on atmospheric foundations.

One can almost smell the torch of the incendiary and hear the rumble of the tumbrel hurrying some victim to the car of Madame Guillotine, after reading the proceedings of the convention.

To any sort of thing.
Some claim that the ticket has a good chance. So has a snowball in the hottest lounging chamber of Tophet.

If it haslet us sing with esthetic Bun-thorne:

Oh, to be wafted away
From this black Aëdonia of sorrow, Where the earth of a dusty to-day Is the dust of an earth to-morrow.
JOHN E. DAY.

The Ostracism of G. Fred.

George Fred, Williams, of Dedham, Mass., ex-member of Congress, asserts that he will be punished socially for declaring for free silver.

Behold how true his Fred, foretold.
For Dedham now is shy.
And all her social circles Adapted to him say: "Oh, he!"

He doesn't get a single bid
To any sort of thing,
And he may have to leave the choir Where he is work to sing.

The Mite Society is doing
On him for what he's done,
And he's a member of the president He doesn't dare to run.

The Church Fair's open to him yet, Despite the silver sin.
But simply so because it is The cash that takes him in.

The Sewing Circle, by a vote, Unanimous and plain,
Decided to let him ever come To tea with them again.

The Literary Club have writ Their resolutions down.
To-wit, that he shan't visit them, Whenever he's in town.

The Mother's Aid Society
Have voted that he shan't Should visit them, they'll spank him so, He'll have to stand at tea.

The Singing School decline to let him join their tuneless throng; They say his silver views are not Adapted to their song.

The Rosebud Social Club declare They're going to shut the door And never play a kissing game With "that thing" any more.

Thus everywhere does Dedham show That socially he'll not Be received as a member of a man Decayed with silver rot.

And it is well: Good Dedham meets The measure of our rhyme.
In that the proper punishment Is made to fit the crime.
